EVENTS

Maine is Weird

6:00pm - 7:00pm @ Bangor Public Library
Join us on Earth Day as Bob Duchesne will present "Maine is Weird," a detailed explanation of why Maine and its forest look the way they do. The state's geology, geography, and history are vastly different from those of other states, which explains why so many birds come here. In fact, due to these historical quirks, Maine remains the most-forested state in the nation.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23RD <<<

Celebrate National Library Week: Decorate Bookends

10:00am - 7:00pm @ Bangor Public Library
The library is taking one day of National Library Week to break out the craft supplies. They have metal bookends just waiting to be decorated by patrons. Stop by to decorate a set and then take them home. (Limit one set per patron.)
